As the train left the Bussets water tank at 6 a. m. the express and mail cars were separated from the train, but the train crew soon had them coupled again. In the run from these to Texarkana the coaches were uncoupled twice in a very mysterious manner.

Upon the arrival of the train here the United States transfer clerk went to the door of the mail car and knocked for the postal clerk to open if. No response was given from the inside. Officials then forced an entrance to the cur and were astonished to find the clerk, John N. Dennis, stretched upon the floor, apparently dead.

A hurried examination showed that the registered pouches had been ripped open and robbed of their contents, the most valuable of which, the Wass-Memphis through pouch, contained a large bilm-ber of valuable packages. A physician was sent for and it was found that Dennis was alive, but unconscious. An ugly wound in the top of his head told the story. Two hours after he was taken to the hospital he revived enough to give the details of the story. Just as the train parted at Bamet's tank Dennis went into the vestibule of the mail car to stir up the fire.
